"How to teach English to students of all ages with dyslexia"

Learning to read is a complex process which involves many skills at the same time. According to statistics, 1 in 5 students, or between 15-20% of the population, has a language-based learning difficulty. This is why it is extremely important for teachers to be able to identify the specific difficulties that dyslexic students experience during the reading learning process and to be able to provide the necessary tools and accommodations to help them succeed. We believe that the learning system, as it is, is failing to provide the right accommodations to ensure that all students, especially those with LBLD succeed in acquiring a second language. In this webinar, we will present a whole new teaching methodology which lays a solid basis for developing correct and fast reading skills.
